

SUNDAY, JUNE 21, 2026 – 5 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Happy Father's Day! A nice change of pace with calm winds to start our morning along with some added dew around. Temps noticeably chillier early on with the upper 50s out on the course and the lower 60s around the clubhouse. That pullover may get a bit too warm throughout the morning as we begin to heat up towards the upper 70s for lunchtime. A few clouds will mix our bright sunshine early on, before our onshore flow influences some puffier clouds to form around midday. These south and southwest winds will start to blow more early to mid afternoon with gusts likely pushing into the mid to upper teens with a max gust around 20 mph later this afternoon. Temps will most likely moderate back down into the mid and lower 70s for the remainder of play. Very unnoteworthy chances for a sprinkle early afternoon as a seabreeze likely develops onshore with a slightly perkier 40% chance of sprinkles or a shower later on. Any of these small sprinkles or showers would need to work overtime to reach us here at Shinnecock with the next real rain threat coming Monday afternoon and Monday night.
