Today – A dynamic low-pressure system will emerge from the Rockies today bringing gusty winds and the possibility of strong storms. Scattered showers are possible through 10am with a break in the weather between 10am-3pm. Scattered strong storms are then possible between 3pm-6pm. These storms could produce a Chinook wind event in Calgary this afternoon with the possibility of damaging winds across the city between 4pm-6pm. The possibility exists for peak gusts over 40mph this afternoon.
