

FRIDAY, JULY 3, 2026 - 5 PM WEATHER FORECAST

Temperatures are sitting at 96° with a heat index of 104° this afternoon under Alert 1 (Heat Warning) conditions, with rain chances easing to 20% at 5 and 6 PM before climbing back to 40% after 7 PM and holding through the overnight hours. All storm chances this weekend will be driven by the combination of midday heating and persistent humidity that has defined this week, with dewpoints locked in the low-to-mid 70s providing a continuous fuel source each afternoon. Saturday opens with a 40% chance of showers and thunderstorms carrying over from overnight and holding through the morning before storm chances climb to 60% after 2 PM as afternoon pop-ups fire, with lightning present in the majority and rainfall totals ranging from half an inch to an inch. Highs reach 94° with westerly winds at 5–10 mph Saturday, and rain chances remain elevated at 60% through the overnight hours before lows drop to 72°. Sunday closes out the championship with the same setup highs near 92°, afternoon pop-ups developing after 2 PM, and 60% rain chances with lightning on the radar throughout the afternoon.
